

HISTORIC STRUCTURE YIELDS TO MARCH OF PROGRESS

An Old Landmark Falls Before Wreckers

One of the old landmarks of Redwood City that linked the past with the present is rapidly disappearing, giving way to the new on the march of progress. The Kirkpatrick building on the corner of Broadway and Broadway, which has withstood the ravages of time since 1861 when it was a school structure used as a photo gallery, conducted by the late J. P. Kirkpatrick, who in the late 1800s moved to San Diego and having invested his savings in real estate there, and at his death left a vast estate running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. This was the first photograph gallery in the county and here came the first of the old timers to have their "shots" taken. John Ford, the famous actor, yesterday exhibited a picture of himself as a boy, taken in the gallery in 1863. The picture displayed a young man with bushy hair which time in its flight has smoothed from the cranium of the actor. Many other pictures of pioneers in town taken at that time which are cherished and prized by owners.

The building was erected by Dr. Kirkpatrick. At one time H. A. Kirkpatrick resided there. He was the first physician in Redwood City and at his time did a large business. He was the uncle of Attorney George C. Kirkpatrick and Dr. J. L. Ross of this city. He was a noted doctor in his day, and his practice took him all over the county. Later Dr. Kirkpatrick came to Redwood City and he was a kindly old man who had many patients who loved him. There he passed away about twenty-five years ago.

Then came H. W. Walker and his wife. Walker was then district attorney and no doubt many wealthy persons were determined within the walls of the ancient structure. Then came Judge Griffin who occupied it for many years and who was the last to reside in it. The old building has many memories, rich in history and on its old-fashioned porch many stories have been told in other days when the country was wrapped in a death struggle war.

It was also here that Chris Harwood resided when he was county assessor and here his son, E. E. Harwood, the local rector, first saw the light of day. But it has outlived its usefulness and now it passes on to give way to modern conveniences. An effort is now to be established on the site of the ancient structure which is being torn down and removed by Archibald Brothers. Portions of the lumber may go into other buildings, but the greater part of the building will be used for fire wood.

A. E. Macintosh, formerly owner of the Broadway Service Station on the highway, has leased 60 feet on Broadway and 100 feet on Winlow street, for a period of five years. Macintosh is to establish an up-to-date station and may spend $10,000 in beautifying the corner. Many years ago Judge Fitzpatrick acquired the corner from the late Della Walker.

LOCAL KIWANIS MEET WITH PALO ALTO CLUB

Members of the Redwood City Kiwanis club and those of the Palo Alto club gathered at the club house of the Emerald Lake Golf Club last Tuesday evening for a joint meeting of the two clubs. More than a hundred Kiwanians and a number of guests were present to enjoy the affair.

The meeting was presided over by Glen Keyson, president of the Palo Alto club. The chief speaker was Harry Maloney, assistant physical director at Stanford University. Maloney's subject was "Keeping Fit" and he illustrated his lecture with a number of exercises, calculated to reduce a too corpulent outline. Following the meeting Maloney and one of his pupils gave an exhibition of fencing which was greatly enjoyed.

The meeting in the evening was preceded by a round of golf between members of the two clubs. In this the Palo Alto Kiwanians succeeded in defeating the local Kiwanians, and thereby won a check of $25 which C. H. Hok of the Emerald Lake Golf Club had promised to the winning club.

The players who took part in the golf tournament in the afternoon were Cy Young, Frank Towne, Sam Winkler, Zeph Thorne, Elmore Hinman and Gilman Merrill from the local club and Glenn Kenyon, Ed Warner, Bob Powers, Joe Kirk, Ernest Irwin and Paul Moore of the visiting club.

NORTHERN SAN MATEO COUNTY PAPERS BOUGHT

Announcement was made today of the purchase from Thomas Weidemann of two weekly newspapers, the South San Francisco Enterprise and the San Bruno Recorder by Sam H. Winkler, publisher of the Redwood City Times-Gazette.

The Enterprise, which is the pioneer newspaper of South San Francisco, was founded in 1895 by W. Martin and the late E. Cunningham. It was purchased last Wednesday from George Weidemann, established in 1922 by Weidemann.

Associated in the deal with Winkler are Horace Amphet, publisher of the San Mateo Times, and Geo. Morell, publisher of the Palo Alto Times and Redwood City Tribune.

In discussing "The ownership of the papers will be vested in the corporation, but the publications will be under my direction and control."

"The management of these publications will in no way affect my pension, while advertising service, which I will render to the papers, will be developed for these papers. Besides complete coverage of local affairs, county news, items from neighboring communities and special editorials will be included in each issue."

"I understand that San Mateo county has more papers per capita than any other county in America. I hope to make the Enterprise and Recorder reflect credit on this large family."

SECOND HOLD-UP STAGED IN TWIN OAKS INN

For the second time within the past few months, the Twin Oaks Inn on Willow road, near the Base hospital at Menlo Park has been the scene of a bold robbery. This time the hold-up was staged by four armed men, who entered the road house on Sunday night, where a number of guests were gathered and after they had mingled with the guests for a time as patrons of the place, drew their pistols and lined the patrons along the wall and proceeded to rob the place.

After having secured a goodly sum, the bandits retreated and made their escape in a car which they had left in front of the door. As they left V. E. Culross, a brother of the proprietor, followed with a pistol, which was returned by the fleeing bandits. No one was struck, however.

The affair was reported to the sheriff's office Monday morning by C. L. Culross, owner of the place. No trace of the bandits has as yet been found.

Ten Are Jailed In Booze Raids

Raids conducted in the Five Points district, just south of Redwood City last Wednesday night by Sheriff T. C. McGovern and Chief of Police Collins of Redwood City, with a squad of men netted ten offenders who were booked at the county jail. Of the ten arrested, three were women and the other seven were men. They were all taken on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors, and will probably face liquor sale charges if evidence can be obtained.

The ten were arrested upon charges preferred by a minor who informed the sheriff's office of the activities of the Five Points establishments in supplying liquor to parties of young boys and girls of Redwood City.

Those booked at the jail were: Ruth Rhu, 27, dressmaker; Louise Sherman, 36, a waitress; Marie Montfieri, 25, housekeeper; H. Hernandez, 25, laborer; Fred Munoz, 32, laborer; Pasquale M. Ballo, 37, laborer; and David M. Johnson, 38, a salesman.

The funeral on Monday last at St. Matthews church at San Mateo was largely attended by friends from all portions of the state. The edifice was crowded with the noble woman. The vast number of floral tributes that blanketed the coffin and surrounded the bier bore mute evidences of the esteem in which she was held.

RYANS DRUG STORE ROBBED

The week proved one of unfortunate occurrences for P. A. Ryan and L. F. Winkler, proprietors of the two Ryan Drug stores. In addition to the thorough soaking which the old store received during the fire in the Wahl building, the firm lost quite a bit of property through a burglary which was committed in their new store on Main street, near Five Points.

The robbery was committed on Monday night. A thief gained entrance to the store by breaking the glass of the front door, and succeeded in getting away with all of the contents of the store, as well as some other articles. This is the second time that the store has been broken into.

'GANGSTER' TRIALS ARE CONTINUED TO WEDNESDAY

The petition by the attorneys for Charles Pero, Albert Craib, John Ohio, George Pelotico and Angelo Chappari for a new trial for their clients, continued to next Wednesday by Judge Beck. The continuance was granted in order to permit the district attorney to file counter affidavits and for argument.

Affidavits have been presented by the defense counsel seeking to establish the innocence of Mrs. Skellenger, who was convicted last week for an attack upon Mrs. Emma Skellenger of San Francisco.

The affidavits filed by Georgianna Looney and James Looney of San Francisco state that Mrs. Skellenger was intoxicated on the evening of August 2, when the attack was supposed to have taken place, that she stated to James Looney that Albert Craib was not guilty of the charge, and that she repeatedly urged the Looneys not to tell the district attorney that she was drunk upon the evening of August 2.

The affidavits of the Looneys further state that the dress worn in court by Mrs. Skellenger was the same one worn by her when the alleged attack was said to have taken place. According to prior testimony by Mrs. Skellenger, she was attacked and had her clothes torn off from her, and was left naked on the road.

Affidavits have also been adduced by Clifford J. Pettigrew, county recorder of Stanislaus county and C. C. Easton, Jr., county clerk of the same county, stating that no marriage record or marriage license is shown in the records of that county for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Walter Welch of Stockton and a former resident of this city was here during the week calling on an old friend. She was a guest while here of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Eikenlander.

MIDNIGHT BLAZE PARTIALLY DESTROYS WAHL BUILDING

Firemen Succeed In Conquering Flames After Hard-fought Battle of More Than an Hour

A fire which originated in a small shed in the rear of the Brown & White lunch room, and rapidly spread to the Wahl building, seriously damaged that building Thursday night. Simultaneous alarms were turned in from boxes 13 and 14, but when the department arrived upon the scene, they found that the flames had already gained considerable headway in the rear of the main building.

Both engines of the department were summoned, and an emergency call was sent to Menlo Park for the Menlo apparatus. The latter was not needed, however, as the local firemen succeeded after an hour's battle in subduing the flames.

The fire resulted in damage, variously estimated from $2,500 to $5,000 to the main building and caused a loss of several thousand dollars in stock to tenants of the building.

The fire Thursday evening was the second of similar origin to start in the Wahl building within the past year, and was similar in many respects to the former blaze. The damage in this case, as before, was limited to the rear of the building, where the flames found unobstructed passage to the roof. The rear portion of the upper story of the building was considerably damaged and the rafters and timbers below the roof were badly burned.

In the course of the battle with the flames, A. S. Ligouri, superintendent of the municipal water works, narrowly escaped what would have in all probability been a fatal fall. Ligouri was climbing to the roof of the building on one of the fire department's extension ladders, and had nearly reached the roof, when the ladder collapsed, dropping him suddenly a distance of about ten feet. Ligouri was able to catch hold of the lower part of the ladder as he fell and saved himself a fall of the pavement below. In doing so, however, he received a bad cut on the hand. Mr. Alain, another fireman, who was holding the ladder at the bottom, was also slightly injured as the ladder fell, his hand was caught between the two collapsing sections of the ladder.

The stock of Ryan's drug store which occupies a part of the lower floor was badly damaged by the fire, but the store was open for business as usual yesterday morning.

The Brown & White lunch room, which was recently remodelled, also suffered from the drenching.

The Wahl building was erected about fifty years ago by William Wahl. It was built as a lodge room for the Redmen, and was for many years known as the Redmen's hall. It was built on the site of Redwood City's pioneer hotel, The American House, which burned down in 1874. This building was erected on the site of an earlier American House, which also succumbed to a fire. It was in this latter building that the returns of the first election ever held in this county were counted, and the victory which ensued, forms a memorable bit of the history of the county.

BEAUTIFUL BULLIVANT HOME DEDICATED

Beneath the giant redwood trees, with their bright green foliage, for which La Honda is so justly famous, enhanced by the beauty of hundreds of luxuriant ferns, a party of over twenty persons gathered Sunday to pay homage to Mrs. Annie Bullivant and her family on the occasion of the dedication of their handsome summer home which had just been completed at one of the most picturesque locations in the county. This home is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Grandi. Here the family remained until about ten years ago, when they returned to San Francisco.

The deceased was born in Kentucky in 1858 and studied medicine in the Missouri Medical College, and later in New York and Europe. Returning to this country he gained a reputation as an authority on abdominal surgery, and was also the inventor of several improved surgical instruments. For many years he was chief surgeon of the Northern Pacific Railway Co.

Surviving Dr. Taylor are his wife, Mrs. Fannie Taylor, a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Westbrook and a son, Thomas H. Taylor.

Dr. Taylor was an enthusiastic member of the Masonic fraternity, and his funeral which was held in San Francisco Monday was under the auspices of his lodge, California Lodge F. & A. M.

Suggestions Needed

THE County board of supervisors are looking for suggestions; suggestions for a suitable monument to commemorate the life of one of our early day distinguished citizens, and if suggestions are as plentiful in this matter as they seem to be in other branches of the supervisors' work, there will be plenty. The need of the supervisors now, however, is for suggestions for a memorial for S. M. Mezes, one of the leading men in the early history of Redwood City.

Mezes was at one time the proprietor of the Pulgas ranch which included all of the land between the southern boundary of the county and San Mateo. It was he who donated the land where the courthouse now stands for that purpose, he also gave to the town of Redwood City, then known as Mezesville, the land for California square and for another park farther north.

We do not know what action the board of supervisors will take in this matter, but it would seem very appropriate to us if a small building were to be erected on the city land near the city hall to be known as the Mezes Memorial museum, where relics of the early days in San Mateo county might be preserved. There are many articles connected with the founding and infancy of the county and of Redwood City which would be gladly donated to such an institution and would be preserved for the future.

The old days of San Mateo county, the days of the itching post and the high hat are gone, and will soon be forgotten if some provision is not made to keep their memory for the future generations. A little museum maintained co-jointly by the county and the city would serve to preserve the memory of the men who did noble work in the early days of this county. It would also serve as a safe resting place for old photographs and articles of the past. Would it perform a fitting memorial for the man whose memory we seek to preserve?

Another Pioneer

SPEAKING of memorials recalls to the attention of the fact that men who do great things for their county and community seldom receive the appreciation of its citizens until they have been dead about fifty years. The men who do the most for a town are frequently the ones upon whom most criticism and ridicule is heaped while they are alive, and yet are most revered when they are dead. The subject of memorials for pioneers reminds us of the fact that there is not a mark in Redwood City to recall the memory of a man, who perhaps, did more for the town in its infancy than any other man. We refer to Horace Hawes, at one time owner of most of what is now the town of Redwood City.

Horace Hawes was a liberal and public spirited man, a bright man who took a foremost part in the formation of the county government when this county was made. He it was who donated the land for the school and the gymnasium, the building now occupied by the Boy Scouts. Hawes gave the right of way through his land to the railway to encourage better transportation. He gave the land for Union cemetery, and did many more things to make his community better. He was noted for liberality and his kindness to the children of the community, whom he frequently entertained at his home, where the high school now stands.

But today Horace Hawes has no memorial in the city he helped to build. One little street, a block long in a far off corner of town, bears his name. Very few people in town know that there is such a street or know where it is. When memorials are being given out we should like to see one in the civic center to commemorate the deeds of the man who did much for his town while he lived and received little thanks for what he did.

A Dollar Well Spent

ONCE again the American Red Cross is seeking funds with which to carry on their humanitarian work with the sick and disabled. There have been many requests for money, this year, and all for the best of causes. Most of the pleas for assistance have been an investment of five or ten dollars. The Red Cross asks for one dollar only, and we do not know of any organization which can do so much good with a dollar as the Red Cross can.

The representatives of the Red Cross will be busy this week asking the public for its dollar, and their request is one that deserves the utmost consideration. These people give their time and money to push forward the altruistic work of the organization. You can help them with a dollar.

SON BARRED FROM ACTION AGAINST FATHER
By a judgment filed this week by Judge George H. Buck, Carlton Emil Miller is barred from any future legal action against the estate of his father, Carlton Earl Miller of this city. The decision was rendered in a suit filed by Miller which has been the cause of litigation for several months.

The elder Miller filed the suit to have a provision made at the time of securing a divorce from his wife set aside. By this provision he was to leave in his will $10,000 to their son who is still a minor. Miller now claims that since making this provision he has lost a large proportion of his fortune, and is not able to carry out the situation. Miller was represented by Ross & Ross of this city.

"The Worst is Yet to Come"

TELEPHONE AND ADVERTISING NOW MAKE BUYING EASY

In an address at the Washington State Press Association annual meeting in Spokane, August 22nd, Mr. Nathan Eckstein, president of Schwabacher Bros. & Company of Seattle, said, "You can buy anything over the telephone nowadays."

Mr. Eckstein referred to the use of the telephone in buying in order to illustrate the point he was making to the newspaper publishers. He maintained that advertising justifies itself when it promotes and facilitates sales, shortens the time in making purchases, promotes quick turn-over, and thus reduces the volume of capital and the size of stocks that are tied up.

"When you use the telephone to order a definite brand or article you know exactly what you want and you obtain what you order. The time of the purchaser and of the merchant and their clerks is saved. The store space required for the accommodation of people moving in and out or tarrying on the floor is reduced. The room needed for display and for stock which must be lighted and heated is less. There is a saving all around."

Advertising legitimately and intelligently done is a tax on no one, said Mr. Eckstein, for the reason that it provides a genuine economy in the scheme of modern business. Unless advertising performs that function, "for which nobody ever," he maintained that it is wasteful and unjustified.

Mr. Eckstein is in constant demand to speak before various groups and business gatherings. His firm is one of the large wholesale grocery houses of the Pacific Northwest.

BIG MEIGHAN CAST

Virginia Valli Heads List of Players in "The Man Who Found Himself" A cast of unusual excellence is seen in support of Tom Meighan in his latest production for Paramount, "The Man Who Found Himself," which appears at the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 28 and 29. It is an original screen story by Booth Tarkington.

Virginia Valli, popular star and leading woman, has the principal feminine role in the story, which was adapted to the screen by Tom J. Geraghty, supervisor of Meighan's pictures. Two women prominent on the stage who appear with Mr. Meighan, are Julian Hoyt and Lynn Fontanne. Mrs. Hoyt is well known as a personage in New York social circles and is a dashing figure on the screen where she appeared recently in the title role of "Juglith of Bethulia." Lynn Fontanne has created numerous characters behind the footlights, chief among them being "Dulcy" and the adventuring wife of Molnar's Broadway hit, "The Guardsman," in which Miss Fontanne and her husband, Alfred Lunt, shared honors for 250 performances.

Frank Morgan of "The Firebrand," "Manhandled" and "The Crowded Hour," plays the chief "heavy" role. His brother, Ralph Morgan, whose outstanding stage successes were in "Buddies" and "The Sign of the Cross," has an important role in the film. Others in the cast are Hugh Harrington, the Music Box Review; Victor Moore of "45 Minutes from Broadway" fame; Charles Stevenson, Mildred Ryan, young Russell Griffin, the boy actor; Norman Trevor, who played in support of Gloria Swanson in "Wages of Virtue," and John Harrington, the "blind man" in Herbert Brenon's "The Street of Forgotten Men."

Quite a line-up! In the story, Tom, vice-president of his father's bank, is sent "up the river" for misappropriating bank funds which were really taken by his younger brother. While in prison he learns that his hated rival is about to marry the "only girl." He breaks jail and arrives on the scene just too late.

The scenes that follow are filled with real drama and heart-interest.

CONSTANCE PLAYS DUAL COMEDY ROLE

Constance Talmadge plays her most unique role in "Her Sister from Paris," the new Joseph M. Schenck production which will be shown at the Sequoia Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, September 30 and October 1.

For the first time in her life she acts the part of her own sister. The story has to do with the exploits of a young and charming—albeit a young and charming—domesticated though she is, who educates her husband into showing his love for her. To do it she impersonates her madcap sister from Paris, who has become notorious.

Weeks of study preceded the beginning of actual production. It was necessary to evolve for Constance a disguise which would so completely transform her that even her husband wouldn't know her, and at the same time retain enough of her real loveliness so that she looked like herself.

Particular care was taken with her gowns, and dressmakers worked for weeks before Constance and Stanley Franklin, her director, were satisfied. In the early part of the story she appears as a meek little person in housewife garb, and then suddenly changes into a bizarre, young dancer.

In her first character she is unable to hold her husband's love; in her second character she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, thinking she is her sister. Hans Kraly wrote the original story for Constance, and she is supported by Ronald Colman, George K. Arthur, Getrude Charie and others.

SIXTH OF GANGSTERS SECURES ACQUITTAL

Jury sitting in the court of Judge George H. Buck Monday brought in a verdict of not guilty after hearing the evidence against John Garabaldi, sixth of the gangsters connected with the Brighton Beach affair to be tried. Garabaldi was the last of the gangsters to face trial, and the only one to be acquitted. Following the acquittal, the attorneys representing the other five men announced their intention of appealing the case against the other gangsters.

The six men were arrested upon charges prefaced by Mrs. Emma Skellinger of San Francisco, who claimed that she was taken by force to Brighton Beach and there brutally and criminally assaulted.

The trial last Monday was featured by the introduction of evidence which was brought into the trials of the other men. It was declared by witnesses in this case that Mrs. Skellinger was intoxicated when leaving San Francisco. This was denied by Mrs. Skellinger.

CONSIDERABLE ACTIVITY SHOWN IN OIL DRILLING

The sale this week of 50 acres of land in the La Honda district to a Los Angeles oil company for $75,000 has renewed the interest in the oil possibilities of this county. The sale was made by the La Honda Oil Fields Association. It is reported that the purchasers of the land will begin oil drilling operations on their land immediately.

Other companies are continuing to drill and are getting encouraging results. A well belonging to the Mid States Oil Company is now reported to be delivering 35 barrels of 50 gravity oil a day, and other wells are showing promise of better production.

use ICE every day!

In changeable weather, perishable foods cannot be kept properly without ice. Any time the thermometer climbs as high as 50 degrees (even if only for an hour or two) your milk, butter and many other foods are affected—not spoiled, but robbed of much of their food value. Sickness and undernourishment in children are often caused by improperly kept food. Take ice regularly. It's the only safe way.

Food is expensive. Ice is cheap. The regular use of ice will pay for itself in the food it saves.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Last Monday night the citizens of Menlo Park, Alto held a rousing town meeting at which the whole community, called out to attend, being called for the purpose of offering the report of the sanitary board and to discuss the forthcoming bond election to raise funds to put in a modern sewer system.

Mr. J. J. Murray, proprietor of the Gilroy Hot Springs who passed away last Friday at the Springs, was well known in Menlo Park, where he is visited by John MacLain. The guests from here were always treated with courtesy and with the kindest consideration. Mr. McDonald became proprietor of the resort twenty years ago, by hard work and attention to duty he built up a thriving business which he leaves to his wife and two grown sons. Mr. McDonald's father was the first to establish the business in the state, starting his plant at Boca, and afterwards selling it to the E. W. Hopkins interests, which is now known as the Union Ice Company.

It has been reported that the Shearer and White properties at Atherton, now under the cultivation of strawberries, have been sold to two capitalists of the east for three thousand dollars an acre. The holding was formerly a part of the Selby estate. The new owners are to subdivide the tract.

The San Mateo County Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations will be held in Menlo Park on October 16. The local organization is planning to entertain the visitors.

After a visit of three months with friends in Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Lester Herrick and her pretty daughter, Miss Eleanor Herrick, returned to their attractive home in Atherton. It was occupied all summer by Mr. and Mrs. Greenbaum, mother and father of Mrs. Herbert Fleishacker. They have returned to their home in New York.

Mrs. Emma Midgeley and son, Roland, left Saturday for Auburn where they will remain for ten days.

Work on the new bridge over San Francisco creek at the end of University avenue will begin in the immediate future, following the letting of the contract in San Jose yesterday.

Collins & Martin were the successful bidders. The price is $14,082 for this amount. Palo Alto will pay 2,341, San Mateo county $4,769, and Santa Clara county $7,041. This total figure is considerably below the first estimate, which was $17,500 of which Palo Alto was prepared to pay a maximum of $2,750.

E. C. Williams and wife who sold their palatial residence in Menlo Oaks recently left yesterday for San Francisco, where they have taken apartments until such time as they will be able to find a suitable home to buy here.

The Hermosa tract on Santa Cruz avenue only a short time ago has been practically all sold and soon it will be dotted with pretty homes. During the week ten foundations were laid for buildings and fifteen more are planned to begin next week. The buyers in this subdivision are San Francisco professional and business men.

It is rumored that the true buyer of the Merrill thirty-four acres on the highway, near town, is Mr. Perry who is to construct a race track there and to erect stables for his string of fast trotters. The tract now is cultivated in tomatoes.

Brandford Leavitt will return from Pasadena on Monday to arrange for taking his family back to their home in the south.

Mrs. George D. Squires has been spending some weeks in Chicago, but is expected to return within the next few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson report the arrival of a new member of the family, who will hereafter bear the name of Chester Leland.

John Volpiano, Sr., is recovering from an operation at the Huling hospital in Redwood City. He plans to return to his home in about two weeks.

The week of October 5th is designated by law as registration week at which time all minors between the ages of three and eighteen years are to be registered at the local schools.

The co-operation of the parents is requested in order that this report may be made up at the earliest possible time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dimond will leave Woodside on the first of October having disposed of the property which they have owned for so many years. We shall be sorry to have them go. Also on the first of the coming month the Zanes will return to Woodside to occupy the new home that has been under construction for the past six months.

Dr. Alanson Weeks hopes to be able to move into his new house by the middle of next month if the weather holds good and allows the completion of the work without interruption.

James V. Neuman has offered a prize for the best essay produced by the pupils of the local school on the subject of "Old Ironsides." This is in connection with the nation-wide campaign of the Elks to raise funds for the rebuilding of this famous ship of our old navy.
